We do not intend to make the impression that we believe that every one who is in favor of what is termed "free turnpikes' is a rascal. But we avow this: That he who understands the question and favors it is an unjust man. And he who favors it without understanding it is a foolish one and little regardful of his neighbors' rights.

The turnpike interest of Lincoln county is a great interest. Of McAdamized roads there are 162 miles which have cost, according to the most reliable information to be obtained, $400,000, of which the county has paid out of its revenues $99,750; $300,250, exclusive of rights-of-way, have been contributed by public spirited and generous citizens. The rights-of-way, which have not been condemned and paid for, would have cost if compensation had been demanded all of $30,000. Mr. Howerton has been forced by the monumental bluff of Capt. Kerr to publish the confession of his wife, which was made in the presence of Revs. Blanton and Rutherford and signed by her. In substance it is that during her sister's illness more than 20 years ago and when sie was 18, she kept house for her brother-in-law, where by "persuasion, familiarities, dallyings, pettings and protestations of love and promises of marriage after her sister's death, with the other methods known to the seducer," he overcame her and that the illicit love thus begun continued up to and during her engagement to Mr. Howerton, a number of years afterwards. She savs she told her sister of it after her engage ment and that she forgave her on the promise to cease her sinful course. It is almost needless to say that the publication has completely taken the wind out of Capt. Kerr's sails and driven his staunchest friends in Bourbon and Fayette from the belief that he was a much persecuted man. The whereabouts of Mrs. Howerton are still unknown, tho' it is asserted now that she is in Boston and will never visit Kentucky again.

THE open air concert given by the Uniformed Stanford Gold Band Friday evening was greatly enjoyed and drew a large crowd composed not only of Stanford people but of a good many country folks. The court-house yard was to an extent illuminated, the weather was perfect and the boys in their handsome uniforms fairly outdid themselves. They had very thoughtfully arranged comfortable seats for the ladies, who heartily enjoyed the treat, while the male members of the crowd got as close as possible to the enchanting (?) music.

In his note Mr. Campbell adds: "Rock Castle is now in the midst of a grand boom, stages arriving full every night and the weather is perfectly delightful."

$150 REWARD. - Gov. Brown has offered a reward of $150 for the arrest and delivery to the jailer here of Odie Paul, the McKinney youth who murdered Ike Helm, the negro, some weeks ago. This very great search, but it may be the source of Paul's getting his deserts for the horrible killing. Ed Paul, father of the murderer, was here last week and told several friends that his son would surrender himself as soon as the excitement died down to some extent, but little or no credence is given the statement. Young Paul knows too well that he has gotten into a very bad box and will certainly make himself scarce in these digdings as long as he can.

JOR MUNDAY .- A good sized crowd heard Joe Munday's lecture to men only at the Court-House Sunday. He didn't mince his words in dealing with ing a crack at creation generally. At the close of his remarks he handed around the hat himself and held it to the victim till he was ashamed not to put something in it. When he started to take the collection he dared anybody to leave before he got to him. Two young men wouldn't take the dare and got up to go, when he halted them with the remark: "See here, young fellows, Sam Jones says a man who will leave to avoid THE Edgewood Distillery, W. H. HELD.-Frank Perry, charged with complicity in the murder of Ike Helm at McKinney, had an examining trial yesterday before Judge Varnon. has he left it? Maud-You poor, dear fellow; you must feel awful over your uncle's death! Ned-Yes, he was such a jolly old

Maud-I feel so sorry for you, darling. Ned-Do you really pity me?

Maud-Yes, dearest, from the bottom of my heart. Ned-And pity is akin to-

Mand-Love. (Casts down her eyes and sighs.) Ned-Your refusal of me coupled with this has completely broken me down.

Maud (after a pause)-Does my refus ing you make you very unhappy? Ned-Of course it does, because-

Maud (approaching bim and putting her arms round his neck)-And-andif I should accept you, my own darling, would it make you very, very happy indeed?

Ned-Yes, Maud, it would make me the happiest man on earth, and I'll tell you why. You see, my uncle was a property on condition that I never married. I thought I would be able to show you how much I love you by sacrificing this paltry $500,000 and marrying you in the face of his miserable old will. Then you will be mine, darling?

Maud (after a longer pause)-As I was saying, Ned, I think a great deal of you, too much to allow you to make such a sacrifice for my sake, but I feel more than ever that there is something lacking. So, Ned (sadly, but firmly), it must be "goodby" forever.-Brooklyn Life.
